

James Crawford AC, SC, FBA is a Judge of the International Court of Justice (2015). Previously he was Whewell Professor of International Law, University of Cambridge (1992-2015), and has held chairs at Adelaide, Sydney and Latrobe Universities (Australia) and Xi'an Jiaotong University, China. He was the first Australian member of the United Nations International Law Commission and in that capacity was responsible for the ILC's work on the International Criminal Court (1994) and for the second reading of the ILC Articles on State Responsibility (2001). In addition to scholarly work on statehood, collective rights, investment law and international responsibility, he has been involved as counsel, expert or arbitrator in more than 100 cases. In 2012, he was awarded the Hudson Medal by the American Society of International Law.